

10x your executive content. In your voice.

Most AI content tools start with a prompt and guess at your voice. Eve starts with your context. Your judgment, your framing, your positioning, your audience. Every draft starts where generic AI stops.

Why do teams choose Eve?

Anyone can generate content. Very few systems can generate yours. The result is better writing, faster, that's encapsulated in a scalable executive content engine.

WITHOUT EVE

Monday

You schedule time with your CEO for input. It gets bumped twice. They send bullets instead.

Wednesday

Your draft is a reasonable start, but the nuance in their head didn't make it into your notes.

You go back and forth with Claude for an hour, and it still reads like a company blog post, not like them.

Friday

They open it to edit. Something urgent comes up. It sits in drafts.

Following week

Nothing went out. Your competitor posted twice. The draft is stale now, so you start over.

WITH EVE

Monday 8am

Your exec slacks you a voice memo on their commute. Draft is ready by the time you sit down.

Monday 10am

Content lead opens Eve, makes a few edits, and queues everything for the week.

Monday noon

Exec approves the schedule in 3 minutes while eating lunch. Content goes live with under 10 minutes of their time.

Rest of the week

Content publishes on schedule. Exec goes back to their day job.

A system to consistently represent you at your best

Eve holds your voice, your company's messaging, your audience, and your editorial strategy in one system, and gets better with use and evolves with you

- Publish-ready from day one. Generate content in minutes instead of hours
- Send ideas to Eve when inspiration strikes, as a voice memo or rough notes through email or slack
- Dynamic calendar automatically schedules content based on the content strategy for each executive
- Editorial coaching uplevels how you show up to your audience
- Consistent messaging repurposed across every channel
- Collaborate across your team to get input, track changes, and get approvals in one place, before going live
- Every exec and brand is isolated, nothing crosses over

Teams see 10x efficiency when moving from Claude to Eve.

"I had the tool create a full-length blog post and I only had to edit 15-20 words. I was curious so I tried it in ChatGPT and what it created was cold and just not 'me,' even though it has all my context, my book material, everything. I simply didn't want to use it."
